☆ What is ☆ Ramadan?

Ramadan is the 9th month of the Islamic calendar.

Ramadan is when the Holy Qur'an was first revealed to Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings be upon him).

We do not eat or drink from dawn until sunset during Ramadan. This is called fasting.

Fasting in Ramadan is one of the Five Pillars of Islam.

At the end of Ramadan there is a big celebration called Eid Al-Fitr which means 'the feast of breaking the fast'. In Eid Al-Fitr we celebrate completing our fast and we thank Allah for the strength He has given us throughout Ramadan.

RAMADAN-THE MONTH OF KINDNESS

Acts of Kindness

Dear Students,

Ramadan Kareem!

As we embark on this sacred journey of Ramadan, a month of reflection, worship, and compassion, I extend my warmest greetings to each and every one of you. Whether it's reading the Quran, reciting dhikr, giving charity, donating to those in need, or simply breaking the fast for others, every act of kindness you perform carries immense significance in the eyes of Allah.

I encourage you to document your acts of kindness through photos or videos and share them with us. Your stories of compassion and generosity will not only serve as a source of inspiration for others but also reaffirm the importance of spreading goodness and love in our community.

Together, let us make this Ramadan a time of spiritual growth, self-reflection, and collective upliftment. May your acts of kindness illuminate the world around you and bring joy and blessings to those in need.

GUIDE FOR PARENTS

Critical Thinking Skills

Let's take a moment to discuss the significance of critical thinking skills and how they play a crucial role in your child's development and future success. As you may already know, critical thinking skills are essential abilities that enable individuals to analyze, evaluate, and interpret information effectively. These skills go beyond memorization and rote learning, allowing children to think independently, make informed decisions, and solve complex problems.

The Cognitive Abilities Test (CAT4) is a mandatory assessment designed to evaluate four key aspects of your child's skills: verbal, non-verbal, quantitative, and spatial reasoning. By assessing these areas, CAT4 provides valuable insights into your child's cognitive abilities and potential areas for growth.

Encouraging the development of critical thinking skills through assessments like CAT4 is instrumental in fostering creativity, innovation, and adaptability in your child. As they learn to think critically, they become more adept at approaching challenges with confidence, developing creative solutions, and navigating the complexities of the modern world.

Moreover, cultivating strong critical thinking skills prepares your child for the future workforce, where problem-solving abilities and adaptability are highly valued. In an ever-changing landscape driven by technological advancements and global challenges, individuals who can think critically and creatively will have a competitive edge.

By emphasizing the importance of critical thinking skills and supporting your child's development in this area, you are laying a solid foundation for their future success. Together, we can empower them to become innovative learners, effective problem solvers, and leaders of tomorrow.

Please find below a few samples of questions for the Non-Verbal section of CAT4 assessments.

You can let your child practice it at home to hone their skills.
